B. SJCC New Course Proposals
   1. CIS 160: Introduction to Information Systems Security—3 Units
      Description: Students are introduced to the fundamental principles and topics of Information Technology Security and Risk Management at the organizational level. They will gain knowledge in hardware, software, processes, communications, applications, and policies and procedures with respect to organizational Cybersecurity and Risk Management. This course prepares students for the CompTIA Security certification exams.

   2. CIS 164: Introduction to Cybersecurity: Ethical Hacking—3 Units
      Description: Students will be introduced to the various methodologies for attacking a network. They will learn the concepts, principles, and techniques, as well as gain supplemental hands-on experience attacking and disabling a network within the context of properly securing a network. The course will emphasize network attack methodologies with the emphasis on student use of network attack techniques and tools, and appropriate defenses and countermeasures. Students will receive course content information through a variety of methods including lectures and demonstration of hacking tools in addition to a virtual environment.

3. CIS 165: Digital Forensics Fundamentals — 3 Units
Description: Students will be introduced to the methods used to properly conduct a digital forensics investigation beginning with a discussion of ethics, while mapping to the objectives of the International Association of Computer Investigative Specialists (IACIS) certification. Topics covered include an overview of computer forensics as a profession; the computer investigation process; understanding operating systems boot processes and disk structures; data acquisition and analysis; technical writing; and a review of familiar digital forensics tools.

4. ECE 192: Care and Education for Infants and Toddlers — 3 Units
Description: Students gain knowledge of different principles and practices to care and education of infants and toddlers in group settings. They will examine policies and regulations that lead to quality care for infants and toddlers. They will learn to observe and assess infants and toddlers for their development, and design developmentally appropriate curriculum for them. Students will be required to complete off-campus classroom observations.

5. GLOBL 003: Introduction to Sustainability — 3 Units
Description: Students will acquire knowledge about sustainability theories and practices. The course adopts a cross-disciplinary approach and focuses on how societies can meet present human needs without adversely effecting future generations. Topics addressed include but are not limited to planetary boundaries, sustainability practices, cultural and religious precepts, the United Nations sustainability goals and the various roles that government, business and individuals might play in the realization of such goals.

6. GLOBL 012: World Regions in Global Context — 3 Units
Description: Students are introduced to the world’s cultural regions and nations as interpreted by geographers, including physical, cultural, and economic features. Spatial and historical influences on population growth, transportation networks, and natural environments are discussed. Identification and importance of the significant features of regions and their relationship to their respective cultures, economies, topography, climate, politics, and environmental issues are examined.

C. SJCC New Program Proposals

1. Associate in Arts in Spanish for Transfer — 60 Units
Description: The Associate in Arts in Spanish for Transfer (AA-T) degree meets the lower division course requirements necessary for the California State University (CSU) system. The Spanish program includes courses focused on the knowledge and competence needed to communicate in Spanish at an intermediate to advanced level. In pursuing the Associate in Arts in Spanish for Transfer degree, students acquire skills through active participation in classroom activities, and exposure to the language and culture of Spanish-speaking communities around the world. Students majoring in Spanish develop critical thinking, problem solving, and written and verbal communication skills. As Spanish majors, students have learning opportunities that are relevant to many types of careers including language instruction, translation and interpretation, international relations, and global business.
